There is a lot of information so if you feel your thoughts start to lose focus, take a short break, and then come back with fresh energy. After you've read the manual, look over your notes; check for any areas that may still seem a bit fuzzy or that you don't remember as well, go back, and reread those sections. Remember, what you're learning will not only keep you safe, but it will protect the other people on the road. Final Steps Once you're feeling confident with what you've learned, it can be beneficial to read over the handbook one more time to keep everything fresh in your mind.
